

Trucker Path Partners with Provident Commercial Finance

Factoring company and mobile app load board come together to improve cash flow for mobile app users

PHOENIX – February 10, 2021 – Trucker Path, the most comprehensive and fastest growing mobile app for North American truckers, announced today a new partnership with Provident Commercial Finance, an accounts receivable factoring company for owner operators and trucking fleets, to provide factoring services for its TruckLoads mobile load board.

“Our clients’ biggest request for ancillary services was to develop our own load board,” said Jason Langston, partner and head of transportation at Provident Commercial Finance. “In Trucker Path we found more than just a load board, we found a partner dedicated to serving our clients as a trip planning companion. Trucker Path not only helps drivers and fleets find and post loads, but also helps find the closest truck stop, available parking, fuel pricing, optimized routing and so much more.”

The Trucker Path partnership with Provident Commercial Finance eliminates the common transportation issue of getting paid only after steps throughout the shipping process are taken by other parties. The chain of one person or company having to be paid before the next service provider or company can be paid often extends payment deadlines, and negatively impacts cash flow and working capital. For many trucking operations it can be difficult to pay for things like fuel at the pump while waiting for payment on a load hauled weeks ago.

“Financing options for small or owner operated trucking businesses are extremely restrictive in the current economic climate and many are not in a position to carry their accounts receivable for an extended period of time,” said Steven Lopez, vice president of business development at Trucker Path. “With this partnership with Provident Commercial Finance we are able to provide timely factoring services for many users of the Trucker Path app who can't afford to be restricted by slow payment cycles.”
